

EAST MEETS WEST

Hong-Youn Kim

University of Nebraska, Lincoln, NE 68583

This garment is inspired by a Japanese designer, Issey Miyake, and an Italian-American designer, Versace. It is aimed for both comfort and freedom of movement. This is an ensemble was created by the draping method and consists of three different pieces: a top, a jacket, and pants. The jacket can be worn in various ways by adjusting the drawstring. The fabric is 100% polyester. Both sides of the fabric were used to provide contrasting colors exhibited in this garment. The colors of sand and green leaves give a natural feeling while the soft hand of the fabric provides comfort to the wearer.