Guide to the University of Illinois Archives

The Archives of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is well-known for its extensive collections in the history of agriculture, athletics, engineering, secondary and higher education, librarianship, science and technology, and student life. The Archives also holds important records regarding the inner workings of a major land-grant university, and it contains the archives of over twenty associations concerned with higher education, and the dissemination of research technology.

Now there's an easy, inexpensive way for researchers to explore the Archives. The Guide to the University of Illinois Archives provides comprehensive access to 11,685 cubic feet of archival material. It covers official records and publications from central university administration and the Urbana campus as well as personal papers of faculty, administrative officers, students and alumni. The description of holdings is arranged in record groups according to provenance. The Guide includes a ten page introduction and historical bibliography and three sets of microfiche:

1) A 353-page Classification Guide providing administrative histories.
2) A 584-page Record Series Description listing of 3,885 record series.
3) A 328-page alphabetical Subject Index.

The cost is $10.00 plus $1.00 shipping and handling. To order, write: James Dowling, Managing Editor, Library Research Center, 249 Armory, 505 E. Armory Avenue, Champaign, IL 61820.

Ross A McFarland Collection
Wright State University

The Fordham Health Sciences Library, Wright State University, announces the availability of two publications, Ross A. McFarland Collection in Aerospace Medicine and Human Factors Engineering: 1. Catalog of the Library and 2. Inventory of the Manuscripts.

The Catalog of the Library contains entries for the 2204 cataloged monographs, corporate technical reports, and reference materials, plus sixteen videocassettes. There are also listings of the journal holdings, the more than 3,000 federal technical reports, and subject and name indexes.

The 182 page Inventory of Manuscripts is a file folder listing of the 397 Hollinger boxes or 204 linear feet of materials. Included at the end of the Inventory are indexes to MaFarland's publications and speeches and photographs in the collection, as well as a general index.

These publications may be purchased singly or as a set. The cost of each, $15.00, includes postage and handling. Only prepaid orders are accepted. Checks should be made payable to FORDHAM HEALTH SCIENCES LIBRARY. Send to: Special and General Collections Librarian, Fordham Health Sciences Library, Wright State University School of Medicine, P. O. Box 927, Dayton, OH 45401-0927.
